NEAR A RIOT AT ATHLETICS' GAME

"BLACK HAND" THREAT SENT TO STEAMSHIP CHIEF

Letter Demanding $1,000 Sent to Manager Lederer, of Hamburg-American Line, Declares Gang Will Go "Higher Up" if Money Is Not Delivered.

Evidence that the "Black Hand" gang of this vicinity has begun to aim at higher game and by bolder methods is indicated by a letter received this afternoon by Emil Lederer, manager of the Hamburg-American steamship line, at No. 35 Broadway.

While the missive contains no threats of personal violence or damage to property, the vein in which it clothes a demand for the immediate delivery of $1,000 to an agent of the "Black Hand" is taken as decidedly ominous.

was received in the Post Office box of the company. It is written in a hand that is almost unrecognizably Italian and which had no trace of efforts of an attempt at disguise. It was on cheap note paper and enclosed in a common envelope. It read as follows:

"Sir, (We want to inform you that we have you for an easy mark. We belong to the gang. It is our duty to let you know about it. We are going to call on you at No. 35 Broadway on next Saturday, 30th inst. You will see him in the hall with a red rose in his coat, while one in his vest. You will easily know him. That is warning for you to look out for him. At 2 o'clock sharp, the man you have to give the money to. He will have a red handkerchief around his neck. We want him from you."

"You will meet him down at the back. Inside the door, so you can give him the money, and say no more about this, as we belong to the Black Hand. Make no outcry about this, if you do you will be sorry, will come at others higher than you, elude the police and the detectives, and we want no such bills. We cannot be caught, as our society is too rich, as come up and your own sake."

"BLACK HAND."
Note is mailed at Station A.
Next at Brooklyn.
Next at N. J.
And that is the last, so come up, please it in time.

The address on the envelope was to "Mr. Emil Lederer," the "L" in his surname having been made into an "H" and afterward poorly corrected. Although the text states that it was mailed at Station A, of the New York Post Office, the handwriting mark on the stamp shows clearly that it was collected from a street or building mail box in the General Post-Office district.

Mr. Lederer was at first inclined not to take the matter seriously, but on reflection saw cause for weighing it with more consideration. The writer is acquainted with his habits, as the time set for the delivery of the $1,000 shows. The steamship office is open until 6 o'clock Saturdays, but it is Mr. Lederer's habit to leave at 4. Also, he generally leaves his exit by the rear door, passing through the long hallway that leads from Broadway to the main entrance.

On the morning of the 29th, the writer went to the office of the "Black Hand" and found that the letter had been received. TRIVERS ENDS LIFE BY BULLET

Was Brother-in-Law of W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., and Uncle of Mayor's Wife.

WAS FOUND DEAD IN BED.

Left Fortune by Father, He Was Noted in New York and Newport Society.

William M. Trivers, broker and clubman, killed himself this afternoon in a rear room on the second floor of his home, No. 136 Madison avenue, by placing the muzzle of a revolver in his mouth and pulling the trigger.

The body was found by Martin McGuire, a waiter, who was summoned by a maid. Mr. Trivers was a son of William Trivers, famous wit and bon vivant of two decades ago. He was recently divorced from his wife, who was Lillie Harriman, a daughter of Oliver Harriman, and sister of Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr.

Until July last he was in business as a partner in the firm of Hugh Eddy & Co., at No. 37 Wall street. The body was found by Martin McGuire, a waiter, who was summoned by a maid. Mr. Trivers was a son of William Trivers, famous wit and bon vivant of two decades ago. He was recently divorced from his wife, who was Lillie Harriman, a daughter of Oliver Harriman, and sister of Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr.

Mr. Trivers was an uncle of the wife of Mayor McLean, and a cousin of Mrs. Cornelius West, formerly Lady Randolph Churchill. From his father Mr. Trivers inherited great wealth and has devoted most of his time to it. He lived most of his time at Alton, N. C., and at Newport, where his wife has been a social leader. He also had a country home at Westbury, L. I.

The recent divorce caused much gossip, though that there was any domestic trouble became known only when the decree was granted.

Mr. Trivers was Vice-President of the Newport Golf Club and Secretary of the Casino. He was a member of the Knickerbocker and Racquet clubs here.

The inspector, aided by Capt. Dooley, Rouseman, Himmell, Detectives Brock, Reeves, Rossini, Smith, Perkins and Thorpe and twenty uniformed policemen, descended suddenly on the building at No. 136 West Thirty-first street, and with axes smashed in the doors and windows of the structure, bringing down the woodwork with a crash that was heard clear across Broadway and attracted a crowd which blocked traffic for some time.

The report, known as the "Jones Club" and which the second floor of the building, the ground floor is occupied by a tailor establishment, the windows and doors of which were broken and smashed by the entrance of the police.

NATIONAL LEAGUE PARK, ST. LOUIS, Mo., Sept. 29.—St. Louis had the Giants worried throughout the opening eleven innings and they expected easier going in the ninth. A second victory would put them on Rye street and the New Yorkers went after it with a vim. Every man except O'Neil took a fresh bite of plug out, grinded his teeth and told Jake Beckley to trot out a tiger.

The crowd by this time had increased to nearly five thousand and there was nothing such as we one time heard in Pittsburgh. The finish had whetted their appetites for something piquant and thousands were the jeers hurled at the Giants, including the Cornet man, who during St. Louis' rally in the ninth had become strangely silent.

First Inning.
Bresnahan walked without difficulty and sprinted to third when Browne sent a bunt. Donlin whipped a single into right, scoring Bresnahan and sending Browne to third. McGinn lined to McBride in an attempt to catch Browne Donlin took second. McGinn cut a single over second and both Browne and Donlin scored. McGinn stole home and Donlin scored. McGinn stole home and Donlin scored.

Second Inning.
Devlin popped out to Arritt and Strang tried to bunt. Taylor's high foul was captured by Leahy. NO RUNS.
Beckley rolled a weak one to Donlin. Himes grounded Taylor, who singled to center. Leahy was forced by Himes' boulder to Devlin. NO RUNS.

Third Inning.
Callahan was safe on L. Cross's fumble. This ball took a bad bound, but at that the White Sox ought to have been happy with a sacrifice. H. Davis, a poor throw by Bender gave Callahan a "hit" off second. Lord made a spectacular catch of McGinn's, a most dangerous one. Tannehill was out. Dangerous to Davis. NO RUNS.

Fourth Inning.
Allright was retired at first on M. Cross's quick work. Bender failed a second time. Jones' ball struck out. NO RUNS.
Tannehill's almost impossible throw tipped the scales. H. Davis' high foul was captured by Leahy. NO RUNS.

Fifth Inning.
O'Neil was an easy out. Murphy to center. H. Davis' high foul was captured by Leahy. NO RUNS.
Tannehill's almost impossible throw tipped the scales. H. Davis' high foul was captured by Leahy. NO RUNS.

Sixth Inning.
Callahan was safe on L. Cross's fumble. This ball took a bad bound, but at that the White Sox ought to have been happy with a sacrifice. H. Davis, a poor throw by Bender gave Callahan a "hit" off second. Lord made a spectacular catch of McGinn's, a most dangerous one. Tannehill was out. Dangerous to Davis. NO RUNS.

Seventh Inning.
Allright was retired at first on M. Cross's quick work. Bender failed a second time. Jones' ball struck out. NO RUNS.
Tannehill's almost impossible throw tipped the scales. H. Davis' high foul was captured by Leahy. NO RUNS.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Sept. 29.—Baseball had humanity warned to the game this afternoon between the Chicago White Sox and the Athletics. In frenzied excitement, and furious lest they should not get within the portals of the park men and women fought for admission. Philadelphia has never known the like of it.

The gates were closed one hour before the game began, but notwithstanding this, 23,000 people swarmed over the pavilion bleachers and the playing field. An overflow crowd estimated at 7,000 persons were gathered in left field.

In an unprecedented scramble for positions of vantage the crowd broke down the ropes and crowded on to the diamond. Many women, who had braved the danger of the wild scramble for admission, were thrown down and many narrowly escaped serious injury.

One woman was known to have had her dress torn nearly off. The police after clashing the ropes and succeeded in restoring order and when the game began the crowd was quiet.

First Inning.
Bender pitched the first ball at 3:25 P. M. Jones, who struck out so many times yesterday, died on a grounder to Murphy. Lebel hit Bender to left for a single but was immediately afterward forced at second by G. Davis, who threw to Murphy, who quickly threw to M. Cross. G. Davis was called stealing second. Schrock to M. Cross. NO RUNS.

Second Inning.
Harrel hit out a long fly to Jones in center field. Lord fanned. H. Davis singled to center. L. Cross put one straight up in the air for Tannehill. Tannehill pitched to-day instead of Rohe. NO RUNS.

Third Inning.
Callahan was safe on L. Cross's fumble. This ball took a bad bound, but at that the White Sox ought to have been happy with a sacrifice. H. Davis, a poor throw by Bender gave Callahan a "hit" off second. Lord made a spectacular catch of McGinn's, a most dangerous one. Tannehill was out. Dangerous to Davis. NO RUNS.

BRIGHTON BEACH, Sept. 29.—Perfect racing weather and a card that was attractive in spite of the fact that it presented no special features in the way of stakes, combined to send a large crowd to the course by the sea this afternoon.

The Association is fortunate in having such weather. A cold week would have meant a great financial loss at Brighton, for the course is not fitted for cold weather racing. The meeting ends here to-morrow, and race goers will put in two weeks at Belmont Park before finishing up at Jamaica and Aqueduct.

The racing to-day promised to be worth looking at, the fields being very well matched.
